

GERMAN REVOLT FAILS TO GET FURTHER SUPPORT

DECEASED DIXON BOY IS AWARDED D. S. C. FOR BRAVERY IN WAR

Posthumous Recognition of Horace Ort's Heroism Is Given.

Colonel Charles G. Davis, of Genesee Ill., has received a copy of General Orders No. 5, War Department, January 23, 1920, in which Horace G. Ort, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Ort of Dixon, a soldier of his command received the award, posthumously, of the Distinguished Service Cross. The citation is as follows:

"HORACE F. ORT, private, Battery C, 123rd Field Artillery, deceased. For extraordinary heroism in action in the Verdun, France, October 4, 1918. He volunteered to carry an important message to a position under heavy enemy fire realizing in advance that he was exposing himself to unusual dangers in this undertaking. He continued in his task until killed by an enemy shell."

Private Ort resided in Dixon and was formerly in Company G, 6th Illinois Infantry. At the time of the act of heroism cited, the 23d regiment was supporting a violent attack of the 32nd Division against the Bois de la Morine, the enemy were resisting desperately and keeping the artillery positions under heavy fire. Their shells had severed the fire communications with Battery C when Private Ort volunteered to carry the message to the Battery Commander. He had gone but thirty yards when he was struck and killed by an enemy shell. This act had previously received regimental, brigade and divisional citations.

STERLING MAN DROVE OFF IN WRONG MACHINE

F. A. Reitzel, a resident of Sterling, driving automobile bandit Saturday afternoon when by mistake, he took the wrong Ford from the streets of Dixon and drove it home before he discovered that it was not his car. Reitzel was transacting business in Dixon with a Ford touring car belonging to a friend and parked it on Peoria avenue near the telephone office. The daughters of Fred Manning, who reside south of Dixon, also drove to Dixon Saturday afternoon, and they, too, parked their Ford car on Peoria avenue near the telephone office while they did their shopping. When they were ready to go home, their car was gone and about 6 o'clock they reported the matter to the police. The customary procedure for missing cars was begun and later the police learned that Mr. Reitzel had discovered his mistake upon returning the borrowed car to its owner at Sterling and was on his way back to Dixon.

He arrived about 3 o'clock with the Manning car and explained the case very satisfactorily to all parties. He reimbursed the young ladies for their inconvenience and drove the right car back to Sterling.

LEGION ENTERS LAST WEEK OF ITS CAMPAIGN

Dixon Post No. 12, American Legion, today entered upon the last week of its membership drive, which closes next Saturday, and the members of both teams will put forth renewed efforts to win recruits for membership during the week; for on the result of the contest depends who shall entertain and whom shall be entertained at the banquet which will mark the end of the contest. The losing team will banquet the winners and all new members.

Saturday was a big day for both teams. O'Malley, who is chief of staff in Capt. Richard's outfit, says without doubt their team went into the lead; but Lewis, who is Capt. Lewis' charge d'affaires, says O'Malley is lagging under the effects of being gassed, and that the Lewis organization maintained the lead. All veterans of the World War who have not joined the Legion are given an urgent invitation to affiliate with the big organization this week.

OLD CODE USED BY NAVY DEPT. CAUSED ATTACK ON CONVOYS

—ADMIRAL SIMS Testified Others Knew of Movement of U. S. Be- fore Officers.

Washington, March 15.—German submarines were enabled to attack the first convoy of American troopships sent to France because the navy department used an unsafe code which was intercepted and deciphered Rear Admiral Sims told the senate investigating committee.

Only a measure of "good luck" brought the convoy safely to port, the Admiral said and other troopships and destroyers were endangered through similar incidents early in the war.

The announcement of the sailing of the first American destroyers was printed in Berlin four days before they arrived at Queenstown," declared the officer.

Admiral Sims said he implored the department not to send messages regarding troop convoys in the code referred to, but the warning was disregarded. All the other allies and the enemy were using new wartime codes he said, while the United States continued to trust invaluable information to a code used for many years.

Get News Before Pershing Information regarding convoys bound for France was circulated in Paris before even General Pershing was informed officially, Admiral Sims asserted. To illustrate widespread knowledge of the plans for the first convoy's departure, the admiral testified that the United States naval attaché at Paris obtained his first word that troopships were sailing from a woman whose husband had received the information in a business message.

Arrangements for the early convoys were "confusing" and did not conform to the allies' methods of safeguarding troops in transit, Admiral Sims said, and the navy department made no effort to consult him and thus avail itself of the experience of the allies in handling troopships. Regulations for the convoys were drawn up in the war and navy departments signed by President Wilson, Secretaries Baker and Daniels, General Bliss and Admiral Benson on May 27, without reference to him, Admiral Sims stated and his first knowledge of these arrangements came when he received a copy of the regulations nearly five months later.

AMERICAN ARMY ON RHINE WILL AWAIT ORDERS

Special Instructions as to Conduct Will Be Necessary.

Washington, March 15.—While technically still under the direction of Marshal Foch, American troops on the Rhine would not participate in any allied advance into Germany without specific directions from President Wilson, it was said today, at the war department.

The officials said the situation so far as the American forces was concerned was a complex one. The United States is the only nation having troops on the Rhine which has not become a party to the treaty of Versailles, it was explained and consequently the American detachment still is governed by the terms of the armistice. Under those terms they still were subject technically to the orders of Marshal Foch as the supreme allied commander.

Steps being taken overseas for possible military action against Germany as a result of the revolution were being closely followed here. Interest centered in Marshal Foch's conference today with the allied commanders at Mayence and in the report from Paris that after this conference he would call a meeting of the supreme war council. The United States is not now represented on that council.

The American forces on the Rhine consist of about 13,000 troops under Major General Henry T. Allen.

THINK MILITARY CAN'T SUCCEED WITHOUT HELP

Socialist Declare Sov- iet in Present Dis- ordered Govt.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, March 15.—The latest advices to the French foreign office from Berlin, it was said today, indicated that the revolution in Prussia had thus far been confined to the military and the Pan-German party, and was without other political support. Leaders of the conservative parties and such industrial leaders as Dr. Walter Rathenau, president of the German General Electric company, it was declared, had favored the movement.

It was added the impression in official circles was that the military party might hold possession of Berlin and other centers and prolong the state of uncertainty for some time, possibly a month or two, but that without the support of other political elements, the movement was doomed to failure.

Get No Report on Attitude German Navy

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, D. C., March.—No official reports regarding the attitude of the remnant of the German navy to the new government had been received today at the navy department. Press despatches last night from Berlin said the sailors were reported to have gone over to the revolutionists, but this was unconfirmed in an official dispatch filed from Berlin today according to London advices.

Surrender of the navy men to the revolutionists was expected here, naval officials declaring that such a move would be a "natural development" of the situation. The torpedo boats reported to have exchanged shots with workmen at the Kiel dockyards were believed to be those that have been kept under full complement for use in mine sweeping operations in the Baltic.

LATEST NEWS OF GERMAN REVOLT

BULLETIN.

Paris, March 15.—A Berlin dispatch received this evening states that an agreement has been reached between Chancellor Kapp of the new government and Gustav Noske, minister of defense in the Ebert government, and that the government crisis in Germany has ended.

"These leaders," the despatch continues, "have been working secretly for months in preparation for their coup. They realized that in his heart the German still thought of the kindly old days glided, as they now are in his recollection, by memories of peace and prosperity. They knew that on their side would be all former officers, government officials and most of the disciplined among the middle classes, who have suffered worst from Germany's present penury."

Behind the movement to overthrow the Ebert government of Germany and substitute a conservative ministry stand well known military leaders, including Col. Bauer, who has the reputation of being the most clever staff officer in the German army, says a Berlin despatch to the Daily Mail.

Chancellor Kapp has announced he would take decided steps to suppress any insurrection by strikers, but it does not seem probable he can prevent a wholesale stoppage of work in Berlin and throughout Germany. In some sections of Germany the strike order is said not to be viewed with favor but there are indications the socialist parties will attempt to bring about a total tie up of business today or tomorrow.

Chancellor Kapp has issued manifestos in an attempt to convince the people the government over which he is presiding will ensure the establishment of a real democracy in Germany. Promises that elections will be held as soon as quiet is restored have been given, and the people have been informed that maintenance of order and protection of the country's economic life will be the only reasons for the taking of drastic steps by the government.

Report Troops in Control of Munich

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Berlin, March 15.—Announcement was made by the new government tonight of reports from Munich that reports from the Berlin socialist government had resigned and that the troops were in control of that city. The reports added that the Landtag would meet on Tuesday to form a new government.

Another announcement by the Kapp government stated that conditions in East Prussia were quiet, civilians and military guarding the railways and the post offices.

As regard Hamburg the government statement said the situation there was not clear. It added:

"In Mecklenburg-Schwerin no strikes have taken place. General Lettow-Norbeck (former commander of the German troops in German East Africa) has taken charge of the troops, who are supporting the new government. Saxony is quiet and the troops are neutral. General Mercken has ordered that no strikes take place. Hanover, Hesse and South Germany are quiet."

EBERT ORDERS ASSEMBLY TO MEET TUESDAY

New Regime Will Be Combatted — Senti- ment Divided.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Berlin, March 15.—(By wireless to London.)—The German national assembly has been summoned by the Ebert government to meet at Stuttgart tomorrow, Tuesday, March 16.

Berlin advices Sunday night reported that the old German government had established its seat at Stuttgart, the capital of Wurttemberg.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Berlin, March 15.—Leaders of the Ebert government pushed from power by the sudden reactionary revolt Saturday morning, are apparently gathering their forces to combat the new regime here. They are being aided by forces of labor, which have declared a general strike throughout Germany as a protest against the change in the nation's government.

Built Around Prussia.

Prussia seems to be the nucleus around which the military leaders have built up their movement. Reports from various cities in other parts of Germany would indicate that Gustav Noske, minister of defense in the old government, has forces at his disposal, and that there is popular opposition to the new regime.

Even in Hamburg, the old government is said to have taken control of strategic points, and the Hamburg senate has issued a proclamation denouncing the new government and asserting its intention to retain control in the state.

Men who are directing the policies of the government headed by Dr. Wolfgang Kapp have not yet secured political support although a statement issued last night declared the prestige of the government has increased in south Germany since Saturday. Fatalities in fighting at Frankfurt and adoption of resolutions by workmen at Dusseldorf, Essen and Cologne against the revolt would not reflect sentiment in those localities to the regime installed in office on Saturday.

Strike Ordered in Berlin.

Strike orders were issued yesterday in this city and it is expected the critical moment for the new government will come when working men walk out. Chancellor Kapp has announced he would take decided steps to suppress any insurrection by strikers, but it does not seem probable he can prevent a wholesale stoppage of work in Berlin and throughout Germany. In some sections of Germany the strike order is said not to be viewed with favor but there are indications the socialist parties will attempt to bring about a total tie up of business today or tomorrow.

Chancellor Kapp has issued manifestos in an attempt to convince the people the government over which he is presiding will ensure the establishment of a real democracy in Germany. Promises that elections will be held as soon as quiet is restored have been given, and the people have been informed that maintenance of order and protection of the country's economic life will be the only reasons for the taking of drastic steps by the government.

Corn Shows Strength on Chicago Exchange

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 15.—Corn displayed considerable strength today chiefly owing to reports that eastern roads had been ordered to furnish 300 cars a day to Chicago shippers.

Besides, Liverpool cables in regard to corn trading seemed to favor the bulls. At first, however, the market was inclined to sag as a result of more liberal receipts here and because of disturbed conditions in Germany. Opening prices, which varied from the same as Saturday's finish to ½¢ lower with May 1.47½ to 1.47½ and July 1.41½ to 1.42 were followed by a material upturn all around.

Oats paralleled the action of corn. After opening unchanged to ¼¢ lower with July 75½¢ the market scored a moderate rally.

Provisions were weak with hogs and influenced by news from Germany. It was assumed also that the semi-monthly warehouse report would be bearish.

GIRL NOT SORRY FOR KILLING

(N. E. A. Staff Special)

Durango, Cal.—Caroline Jones, 15 years old, has spells of the blues as she awaits trial on the charge of killing Carl Bay, but not once has she admitted that she was sorry for the shooting.

Caroline's father died soon after he was beaten by Bay with a rock after calling the young man to account for remarks said to have been made by him about Caroline.

Some time later, Caroline trudged into Bayfield through the drifted roads and shot Bay five times.

"CREDULOUS BIRDS" WILSON AND GEORGE DECEIVED, SAYS PRESS

British Papers Caustic in Comments on German Revolt.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
LONDON, March 15.—London's editorial opinion on the German revolution is indicated by such headlines as "Allies Fooled Again," "The Old Adam," and "As Was to be Expected." "While our politicians have been filling us with hot air, the junkers have been biding their time," says the Daily Mail. "In dealing with the Germans one must always calculate upon bad faith. They set up a 'Dud' government to sign the treaty of peace, but when the time comes to carry out the capitulations the junkers again take charge. Whatever their purpose is, our visionary statesmen are ignorant of its nature." The Morning Post recalls it has always contended the first German revolution was a "sham." The French have understood the trick from the beginning," the newspaper declares, "but the Social Democratic chaff completely deceived those two credulous birds, President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George. That wary old bird Premier Clemenceau was never deceived, but he was overruled. The weakness of the allied policy from the beginning has been that it was dictated by demagogues. The Germans are naturally a national monarchial people, and tolerated the late government only because they thought it would be acceptable to Mr. Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George. The allies, under dictation by demagogues built their peace foundation on the sand. They negotiated with a government which did not represent the real Germany."

Expect a Hohenzollern
One of the Hohenzollerns, in the opinion of this newspaper, will soon be placed upon the throne of Prussia, but whether he will be given the imperial crown will be another question. Hopes are expressed that Bavaria, Saxony and the Rhenish states will have nothing to say as to this development. "The time calls for swift decision," the Morning Post concludes "and we can only hope the decision will be along lines of the French, rather than recent British policy."

The Chronicle says:

"Assurance by the new German government that it will abide by the treaty of Versailles is welcome as far as it goes, but it does not go far. Until the militarists have established themselves at home they are not likely to challenge trouble abroad. Should their usurpation be confirmed, we may look for very different language. Their enterprise at present is merely an adventure, and may collapse, at most as suddenly as it began. If it should result in a restoration of the Hohenzollerns the situation could not be tolerated by the allies for whom it would go far toward undoing the winning of the war."

GRAY GEORGETTE HAS VEILED SEQUIN BANDS

BY CORA MOORE.

(New York's Fashion Authority.)

New York.—Chiffon cloth, Georgette and similar semi-transparencies are to be made up, not alone for evening dresses, but for day occasions as well, with hat to match. They rarely show any striking combination of colors, but are worked out in monotone effect and are very distinctive.

Edna Morn wears such a frock in John Corb's musical comedy "Fiddlers Three." It is of heavy Georgette in a soft gray with bands of sequins applied on the under-side so that they are veiled by the Georgette. Incidentally, the gown exploits a new sleeve and one that promises to be as popular as the very short sleeve has been.

It is of kimono type, but with much fullness below the elbow held out by an inside cord, then this fullness is drawn into a cuff formed of the sequin banding which is stretched a bit along its lower edge, so that it flares, and it is chiffon-faced. The round hat is standing fold of the Georgette, and Georgette is effectively swathed about the crown with clusters of grapes.

They say "there's never a winter but sang of the May." I would say that this winter howls of the May—MAY.

(Copyright, 1920, N. E. A.)

These days of fleeting sunshine are apt to get into a housekeeper's blood and make her restless while it's altogether too cold to start the spring campaign.

I attack my dresser drawers. A lot of energy that accomplishes something can be worked off that way.

It's a sad fact that more or less dust will collect in the best cared-for dresser. The cleaning of the drawers scatters quite a bit of dust over a spick and span clean room, so it is best to have all drawers and cupboards cleaned before the room is.

And sometimes one uncovers a collar that is perfectly all right for a new waist and saves buying. One often has treasures laid away that are forgotten.

Menu for Tomorrow.
BREAKFAST—Orange juice, flannel cakes, syrup, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Scalloped eggs, pickles, baking powder biscuit, jelly, tea.

DINNER—Fried herring, creamed potatoes, beets with orange sauce, lettuce salad with combination dressing, chocolate bread pudding, coffee.

My Own Recipes.

Fish may be fried in deep fat or in just a little fat in the frying pan. If fried in deep fat it should be dipped in crumbs, egg, and crumbs and treated like croquettes. If fried in the frying pan the fish should be salted and peppered and dipped in flour, corn-meal or very fine crumbs. Small fish, such as herring, are best adapted to this method of cooking.

FLANNEL CAKES.

2 cups hot milk.
2 cups cold milk.
2 tablespoons butter.
4 eggs.

1 teaspoon salt.
½ cake compressed yeast.
Melt butter in hot milk and add cold

New Chancellor Was Born in New York

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, March 15.—Born in this city in 1858, Wolfgang Kapp, chancellor of the new government in his youth refused to learn German and when he was 12 years old was taken to that country by his father to finish his education, it was learned today. He never returned to the United States.

Friedrich Kapp, the boy's father, was active in Germany in the revolution of 1848 and came to this city, where he still resides.

The elder Kapp was active in politics and organized a league of German-Americans for Fremont, when the latter ran for president on the republican ticket. Kapp later became a friend and supporter of Lincoln. He also was an intimate friend of Carl Schurz and Dr. Abraham Jacob.

In 1852 he married the daughter of the commandant of the fortress of Coblenz in the old hotel Napoleon Hoboken. They moved to this city where the present chancellor and two daughters were born.

Wolfgang was sent to a private school, which was conducted by a Frenchman, Adolph Douai, on the present site of the Hotel Astor.

LOWDEN FOR PRESIDENT.

Every National crisis calls for a man peculiarily fitted to guide the nation to safety.
The United States, in common with the rest of the world, is facing great problems, the solution of which will influence future generations and will determine to a large extent
the destiny of all peoples.

The next president must deal with such problems as the restoration of normal economic conditions; reduction of the enormous burden of public taxes; the adjustment of wages and the cost of living; the protection of the interests of the United States at home and abroad, and many other problems equally important.

He must be a man of ability as an executive, of breadth of vision, of progressive ideas, of the highest integrity and unselfishness, one who will not depend upon his own judgment alone but will consult with the brainiest men of the nation in an effort to shape the wisest policy.

He must be a man bound to no one section of the country or faction of the people—
knowing no North, no South, no East, or no
West; devoting his energies to the whole United States.

It is with a consciousness of these exacting requirements that thousands of men and women throughout the country who are familiar with the life and works of Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois are pointing to him as the man best fitted to undertake the great task of the presidency.

Governor Lowden is of the middle-west,
the heart of the nation. He was born in Minnesota, reared in Iowa and for many years has been a resident of Illinois.

He was a poor farmer boy. He taught school to earn money for a course in college.
He went to Chicago and became one of the leading attorneys of the state. He has participated in republican party councils as a member of the national committee. He has been a member of congress. He is engaged in farming on a large scale both in Illinois and Arkansas.

With this as a foundation he became governor of Illinois in 1917 and assumed the additional burdens placed upon the executive by the war.

When he became governor, the state government was inefficient because of the cumbersome executive administration which had grown up through the years. There were 125 boards, departments and commissions charged with administration of the law. The cost of government was out of all proportion to the results attained.

In the first legislature after his election, Governor Lowden secured the enactment of the Civil Administrative Code which reduced the executive agencies from 125 to 9 and centralized duties to such an extent that in spite of the enormous increase in the cost of everything the State had to buy, the state tax was reduced 33 per cent.

He secured the enactment of a highway measure which provides for the construction of paved roads passing through every county and touching every city of any size in the state.

Through competent engineers, he solved
the deep waterway problem and secured the enactment of law which will provide a connecting link between Chicago and the Illinois river, affording an eight-ft. channel from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

As a result of his support, a constitutional convention was called to meet in Springfield and redraft the constitution of the state to meet present-day conditions.

When the United States entered the war he took the leadership among governors in arousing his people to full co-operation with national government in every war activity.
He appointed representative men on the State Council of Defense, choosing them from the ranks of the employer and the employe and from the professions. As the problems developed he consulted with the men best able to advise him on the course to be pursued. When labor and capital by disputes threatened to disrupt productive industry he called representatives of both to his office and brought them to an understanding. Whenever a problem presented itself he called in advisers and reached a conclusion after he had heard all sides.

As a consequence, his administration is noted for its achievements.

WHICH WAS RIGHT?

The shoe retailers of three southern states met in convention recently. After two days of shop talk they were thrown into a sharp conflict with a state fair price commissioner working under the arm of the Lever act.

Immediately preceding the commissioner's address an earnest dry goods dealer had exhibited some of the luxuries of the age—kid gloves, silk blouses, a hand-made woman's boot—and had expatiated at some length on their beauty and their workmanship.

When the fair price man arose he referred to his predecessor's talk with something akin to a sneer. "The fair price commission doesn't concern itself with the evolution of the superbautiful," he declared. "What it wants is to secure the necessities of life at a fair price for the wage-earner. It would be better for this commonwealth if it were walled off from the east and its 'exquisite creations.'"

The dry goods man made no reply from the platform but he was hurt. To a friend he was heard to say, "The commissioner is honest in his remarks, but his theory is wrong.

"If it were not for ambition, the desire to do better, the love of creation, your beautiful city here with its tall buildings would be what?—a hog-wallow. People pay for good workmanship because it gives them pride of possession and stimulates their own effort.
Sloppiness is the harbinger of decay.

"What made Greece glorious—for what is Athens famed? Progressiveness, originality, the creation of beauty! China is a living example of the other man's theory."

Which was right?

Palmer says the price of meat has been falling for three months. At the same rate of speed it should reach normal level in 832 years.

Why does Governor Edwards desire an anti-prohibition plank? Can't the man think of some more merciful way to kill the party?

Young Turks who have their hearts set on war will get little sympathy from the old birds who have been through the mill.

When a great man can't think of a crushing answer to criticism he can ease the tension by calling it impudence.

Objection to the fact that the wicked have a good time may be only envy of their moral irresponsibility.

There wasn't so much profiteering in the day when children's underclothing were made from flour sacks.

JUBILATE.

O, sing this day of gladsome glee,
This royal, joyful jubilee!
O, let's rejoice, exult and shout,
O, let the jocund jazz sing out!
O, let us shake our sides and roar
And crack our rippled ribs once more!
O, let us carol, frisk and sing
And mad fandangoes let us fling!
O, let us chuckle, cheer and crow;
O, ha, ha, ha! O, ho, ho, ho!
O, let us frolic, fling and play,
O, let us drive dull care away—
Our income tax is due today!!

O, let's kick up our heels in folly,
O, tolleroll, rollo, rollo!
O, loose the wassail, drain the bowl
And hold high jinks in every soul!
O, gasp with laughter to the core
And shake the cap-and-bells once more!
O, rig the jig and rigadon.
O, razz the jazz and troll the tune!
O, ho, ho, ho! O, ha, ha, ha!
Fling up the cap and cry hurrah!
O, rag the reel and roundelay,
For March makes merry more than May,
Our income-tax is due today!!

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

THE VAIN HIPPOPOTAMUS

"Magic mirror tell me true
Who is fairest of the fair?"

Nancy and Nick heard these words uttered, in anything but a squeaky voice. It sounded more like a thunder-storm, only thunder-storms were very rare in Topsy Turvy Land. They peeped through the bushes and there sat a hippopotamus by a pool, looking at herself in the water. Suddenly she spied them.

"Come here, kiddies," she called. "I need some help."
So the little Green Shoes made way for the children through the thicket.
"I've a secret to tell you, so come real close while I whisper," she giggled.
And when the twins were near she said in a voice about as soft as a big bass

"The thing that worries me most," the hippopotamus went on, "is the shape of my nose."

drum, "I'm trying to get beautiful! Now don't tell anybody, will you?"

The twins promised.
"There's a prize offered in the jungle at home for the most beautiful lady," went on the hippopotamus, "so I came hereto primp. I've already begun on my complexion." And dipping a dust brush into a barrel of flour she began to dab it all over her face. The twins had to sneeze, the air was so full of it, and they had an awful time, too, trying not to laugh, she looked so funny.

"The thing that worries me most," the hippopotamus went on, "is the shape of my nose. Do you know of anything I can do for it? I was so insulted the other day when a boy called out that it looked like a potato. I was wondering if I'd wear a clothes pin on it, if it wouldn't get more aristocratic."
The Magical Mushroom in Nancy's pocket called out, "If beauty is skin deep, you'll get the prize." And while the hippopotamus was still thanking them, the twins skipped away to look for Jocko.

DISINFECTION.

Disinfection may be defined as the destruction of disease-producing germs. It may be performed through the use of natural, physical or chemical agents. Sunlight is an example of the first, heat of the second, and carbolic acid of the third. Anything which destroys disease-producing micro-organisms is known as a disinfectant or germicide. Whatever agent is used, the element of time during which it acts is important.

Antiseptics are substances that prevent or delay the growth of germs, although they may not destroy them.

Boric acid is an example of an antiseptic. Weak solutions of carbolic acid or of mercuric chloride are other examples.

Deodorants are substances which simply destroy or neutralize foul odors, due to the decay or decomposition of organic matter. Substances which simply substitute one odor for another, are not true deodorants. De-odorants are not necessarily disinfectants nor are disinfectants necessarily deodorants. Solution of chloroform of zinc is a deodorant. Some substances
(e. g. formalin) are both deodorants and disinfectants.

Disinfection as practically applied
may be divided into two classes, viz:
First, and by far the most important,
bedside disinfection; second, terminal
disinfection.

Bedside disinfection means that disinfection which is applied continuously and immediately to the secretions and excretions of a person ill with an infectious disease (stools, urine, sputum, etc.) and anything which may be soiled by them. The term "bedside" is not to be construed literally, as it includes, for example, the disinfection of the sputum of a tuberculous person, who may be walking around most of the day. The idea is that the disinfection shall be immediate (within a few hours at most) and continuous throughout the period of infectiousness of the patient.

Terminal disinfection means the disinfection, after the disease has terminated, of the patient, the nurse, and others who have come in contact with the patient; the clothing, bedding, all utensils, furniture, room, house and anything else that may become contaminated by the patient's discharges during the course of an infectious disease.

As a rule the local health officer will be glad to advise regarding disinfection
in communicable diseases.

ANSWERED.

Q.—How long will tubercular germs live outside of the human body on the ground or on anything in the open air?

A.—The viability of tubercle bacilli
outside of the animal body varies greatly, according to the particular circumstances present. When in material which can dry rapidly, and which is exposed to sunlight, the germs probably live only some hours.
On the other hand, in material that is quite moist, and kept in a dark place,
the germs may live for days.

If you will send me your name and address, I will send you several helpful pamphlets on tuberculosis.

Q.—Is it possible for a person to be entirely cured of gonorrhea?
A.—Yes; dependent upon prompt and efficient treatment and advice.
Pamphlets giving helpful information will be forwarded if the writer will send his name and address.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Association)

Bob's imitation of his former condition of shell-shock proved easy—for a time—because Certes and Don Manuel were seldom at the hacienda. We soon knew the reason for their absence.
Bob had a fine knowledge of Spanish. Part of his scheme was to pretend to a very limited familiarity with that language.
This ignorance combined with his reputation as a harmless lunatic enabled him to overhear the conversation of those about him—and remain unsuspected.

Bob's "Insanity" is Accepted By Everyone
at the Hacienda as Real.

Certes should have known that Bob's tongue was fluent in many languages, but like another intriguer, Certes forgot a most valuable bit of information at the most important crisis of his career. Or was Certes, perhaps, so confident of his own power and so sure of his prey that he ceased to worry about minor details?

At any rate, Bob's stupidity was accepted by everyone in the hacienda from Certes and Dame Camilla down to the sly little maid who waited upon me. Thus Bob heard much he was not supposed to understand. Thus we learned of the increasing danger of war between the United States and Mexico. Thus our suspicion about Certes and Don Manuel was confirmed and we were appalled at the tremendous part the two conspirators were playing in inciting Mexico to harass the United States to the limit of its great patience.

All this we learned from the excited conversation of great and small persons on the estate.

What we most wanted—direct news from "God's county" arrived suddenly.

Early one afternoon, while I was reading a story to Bob, we heard the purring of a fine automobile engine as the car passed below our window in the direction of the arched entrance of the patio.

I stopped reading and looked at Bob. My husband returned my inquiring glance and rose to his feet.

"Not once of Certes' cars," he said. "But something rather fine Jane?"

"Maybe one of the big Mexican outlaws has come—" I said.

"It's probably a Mexican politician," Bob remarked. "Let's wander out on the balcony. Not a very polite proceeding for a lady and a gentleman, my dear, but a most correct one for a self-appointed secret service agent."

"It will pass—if a man has lost his mind, my love. Come on!" I said, taking Bob's arm.

The balcony overlooked the patio. It was screened by tropical plants in ornamental tubs. Without attempting to hide ourselves, Bob and I remained half concealed from the crowd which had collected at the open side of the patio.

"Certainly they're persons of some importance," said my husband. "See —Donna Camilla has been summoned. And Augusto, Dr. Certes' private secretary. Moreover, they are in a hurry. Positively this is the only time I ever saw Donna Camilla hurried!"

"Or Augusto obsequious?" I exclaimed.

"He's actually walking backward—as he bows—like the darn lackey he really is," said Bob. "It must be the president of the republic—himself—"

Bob! It's your—own—father! I exclaimed, as Daddy Lorimer's imposing form loomed above the undersized figures of the Mexican in the patio.

And my twin sister, Cheryl? In the name of Castor and Pollux, can you bear this? whispered my husband. "Dad must be crazy to venture down here with the menace of war in the very air we breathe."

"A terrible risk, isn't it?" I replied. "But I must say that never in my life have I been so glad to see your father."

"Same here. Let's go down and tell him so," Bob turned toward the balcony stairway.

I clutched his arm and dragged him back.

"Hold on! Wait a minute! Remember you're out of your mind! Remember you've relapsed into your old state of shell-shock! We simply must not meet our relatives before Dame Camilla and Augusto."

And then, early in the summer car-

Let the coal reproduce. By winter your coal bin ought to be full.

That'll be the end of the coalman!

AND IF coal can thus increase, why not other things?

For instance, your flyver might each fall hatch a litter of little cars which by the following spring would be big enough to navigate.

(Always have a saucer of gasoline standing round for the baby auto.)

AND THE house shortage would be solved if you'd just take a handful of bricks, a plank, and some nails, lay them in the center of the vacant lot, go away, and let 'em hatch out a new house. No labor cost, no troubling with architects, and no bothering with plumbers!

BUT IF the senate doesn't get off
the peace treaty nest it will hatch out a dozen more treaties!

While you're waiting for all this to happen, give a look to this artist's remarkable pearl. So writes the Hon-there.

"That pearl twice a year produces other pearls," she declares.

The lady who owns this anti-race suicide pearl has a string of its de-

where it remains till the increase takes place.

When the pearl was brought to the doctors they noticed some little bits of rice in the box with the pearl, which, it was asserted, had been nibbled at
by the little pearls.

The London Daily Express relates baby pearls made their appearance.

IF PEARLS can do that why can't diamonds? And if diamonds, why not coal?
Science must solve the riddle.

COMMON TONGUE BOTH BOND AND BARRIER IN U. S. BRITAIN AFFAIRS

Sir A. Geddes, New Ambassador to American, in First Address.

London, March 12.—Sir Auckland Geddes, the newly appointed ambassador to the United States made his first speech today since his appointment was announced, addressing a large gathering in his honor at the American Luncheon club. The American ambassador John W. Davis, president at the luncheon introduced the British ambassador who was warmly received. While avoiding political topics, Sir Auckland spoke of the characteristics of the American and English people and the essential binding them together. Referring to the phrases "our American cousins" and "blood is thicker than water," the ambassador said he felt at first that he was dealing with a great civilization which seemed different from all he had met until "the crust was broken and I found myself among people I understand." He continued: "The cure for such ills as exist, is I am sure frankly to recognize that the common language is at once a bond and a barrier and to work to strengthen its binding power and weaken its separating influence. It can be done, but it is not the work of a day or a year."

Judge By Collective Will.
"What we all want more consciously to realize is that nations cannot be judged by a few chance specimens of their citizens. They must be judged by the expression of their collective will, made manifest in hours of crisis. Judge Britain by her action as a nation during the war, during, if you will, one month of the war—April, 1918—and I think no Briton or friend of Britain need be ashamed of his citizenship or his friendship."

"Judge America by her action when she came into the war, her whole-hearted and instantaneous adoption of compulsory military service and, even more striking, the voluntary rationing of the use of food and fuel in millions of households and I think no American or friend of America need be other than proud of his citizenship or his friendship."

"These are the great signs of the pure gold of unselfish idealism in national souls, and long after the hysterical shouting and exaggerations have passed away, long after the false generalizations have been exposed and their falseness recognized, the ultimate essential verity, the capacity to forget self in the service of a common ideal, will bind our nations in a yoke of service to mankind."

Ex-Kaiser Nervous Over Berlin Revolt

On Wednesday afternoon at the Farm Bureau office in Amboy, J. R. Holbert, specialist on cereal diseases will discuss corn root rot and wheat scab. Mr. Holbert has worked in co-operation with Funk Bros. at Bloomington for a number of years and was probably the first man to discover the very serious damage being done by corn root rot and that this disease and wheat scab are very closely related. He will tell how to detect these diseases; the great amount of damage done by them; and different methods of control. He will display charts, pictures and samples of the diseases, and the damage done. This meeting will be of special interest to every corn grower, wheat grower, and in fact to every farmer.

SILENTS COPE WITH NORMAL WORKERS IN AMERICAN INDUSTRY TODAY

BY GUY P. JONES.
Akron, Ohio.—The world's largest colony of deaf mutes is working out its social and industrial destiny at Akron. Several hundred "Silents," as they are known, form an important unit in The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s industrial army. Inability to talk and hear has not barred them from taking just as important a part in the activities of the great plant as the normal workers. And, best of all from the viewpoint of a social student, the colony is a natural growth, largely the work of the mutes themselves, not the result of a theorists' experiment.

The pioneer Silents speedily demonstrated their worth. And when it became known that they were being employed the free-masonry of the mutes spread the news from one end of the country to another. From every state came Silents.

Not only do the Silents cope with the normal worker in all departments but they exceed him in many. The loss of speech and hearing quickens their capabilities. Tests in the tire-building department showed the Silents to be the most efficient, conscientious workers in the plant.

Here are some of the Silents' accomplishments: Have a football team which Ohio's strongest semi-pro and collegiate elevens were unable to defeat in 1919. Their goal was crossed but once.

Have their own clubhouse, dramatic society, church and debating society. Many members of the latter are graduates of the Gallaudet College for Deaf Mutes at Washington.

Have their own 20-piece band. Its harmony and rhythm is musically correct. Silent players "hear" the vibrations of their instruments.

The story of the Silents would be incomplete without mention of Mrs. Nellie Gillespie Shawl. Born of mute parents, but speaking and hearing herself, Nellie Gillespie decided to devote her life to welfare work among deaf mutes. She was employed to aid the Goodyear Silents where she is now hetman—or woman—of the mute clan. She makes their fights, arbitrates their fights, arbitrates their controversies, molds their private lives, in fact, "mothers" the whole colony.

Mrs. Shawl is the wife of a Silent. Her wedding was the culmination of a colony romance. A speaking minister performed the ceremony, which was translated into manual language by an interpreter.

Goodyear Silents' basketball team, and, inset, is picture of Mrs. Nellie Shawl, welfare worker among the deaf mutes.

"You're a great cook Gerry," was all Robert said, but he ate more heartily than he had for months. When he kissed me good-bye he said:

"I'll be home early," then hurried away before I could answer.

All day I thought of him as he was the night before when I returned after seeing Mary and Gardner Kenyon out. What did it mean? Was it simply nerves, as he had said, or had something happened of which I knew nothing?

Naturally now my thoughts turned to Marion Hovey. Had he learned to care so much for her that the thought of keeping house even in this crude way with another was painful? Her declaration that she loved Robert and that I was unworthy of him, had rankled constantly.

I shopped a little, for necessary good, going to the stores Mary had patronized in the neighborhood. I spent an hour before I went out studying the cook book which had been one of Mary's first purchases. I decided not to attempt anything elaborate, so purchased steak, potatoes, which I would bake, some rice for a pudding—I had noticed a recipe for "Mother's Old-fashioned Rice Pudding," which read simply, I would try it. Then I bought some rolls—I would heat them both for dinner and for breakfast—Robert was very fond of hot bread.

I had cleaned the little place before I went out. There was really very little to do as Mary had left it immaculate. I made my pudding, got myself a bite of lunch, an then wondered what I should do with myself until time to get dinner. Thoughts of the shop came to me. I wondered who was waiting on my customers, and if they would make a fuss because I was not there. I had a large clientele, women whom I had waited upon, and pleased, for years. I hoped Mary would take them.

I studied the cook book an hour; then, unable to endure the inactivity longer, I went for a walk in the park. "Well, how goes it?" It was Gardner Kenyon's voice. He was almost breathless he had hurried so to catch up with me.

"Oh, beautifully! We had a lovely breakfast. Then I marketed. But this afternoon I had nothing to do so I came out for a walk."

"That's one thing business does to you women," he had fallen into step with me. "You don't know how to loaf. Now a man, no matter how strenuous his business life, if he has the chance can loaf with a clear conscience, and do it comfortably. But a business woman carries an Atlas like load on his shoulders and won't drop it even when she is playing."

"Does Mary carry a load constantly?" I asked mischievously.

"Yes, altho I have tried to break her of it. I am teaching her to play. I don't want her to miss the shop after we are married."

After we parted I wondered if Gardner were right. I concluded he was. I, for one, didn't know how to loaf. Tomorrow—The First Dinner at Home.

FORMER DIXON MEN PURCHASE KENOSHA BLDG.

Ed and Fred Dayton Acquire Valuable Property.

The following from a recent issue of the Kenosha, Wis., Herald, telling of the prosperity of Edward and Fred Dayton, who at one time conducted a cigar factory here and who have many friends in Dixon, will be of interest:

Virginian theater, including the building, the land and the equipment, changed hands this afternoon with the consummation of a deal in which Al Meis, present owner, disposed of the property to Edward Dayton and Fred Dayton, local real estate men. The financial consideration is understood to have been in the neighborhood of $70,000. The new owners took possession this afternoon.

According to Edward Dayton, the second floor of the structure will be remodeled immediately to accommodate the many applicants for office space. The Dayton suite of offices also will be moved to the structure as soon as the improvements are made.

Continues as Show House.
The theater will be continued as a show house. Motion pictures probably will be afforded the public within the near future. Re-decoration and a general renovation of the interior of the theater will be effected as soon as the new owners can perfect their plans for the future.

The Virginian theater property is located in the heart of the business section of the city and is regarded as valuable not only because of its advantageous location, but also because of the nature of the structure, which is modern in every detail. Specific announcement of the plans of the new owners will be made within the next few days.

FRANCE TO SEND MORE TROOPS TO GERMANY TO FACE EMERGENCY

Forces Along Rhine Will Be Doubled as Result of Revolt.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Paris, March 15.—(Havas).—France contemplates sending three more army corps to Wiesbaden, Neustadt and Bonn, thus doubling her forces along the Rhine according to the Pott Parisisien. Marshal Foch will call a meeting of the supreme war council as soon as he returns from Mayence, where he will confer today with allied commanders. Reports reaching this city state that every step has been taken to maintain order in occupied district of Germany and that the inter-allied commission for the Rhenish province has received the German high commissioner after having conferred with allied military leaders.

No Wires From Berlin.
Information received here would seem to indicate the utmost calm is prevailing in Germany, although the severe censorship in Berlin may be responsible for a lack of detailed news from that city. Telegraphic communication with Berlin is interrupted, the last telegram from the French charge d'Affaires there having been received at the foreign office in this city at 1 o'clock Sunday morning.

Advices from other sources, however, indicate the reactionary movement begun on Saturday morning is confined to Berlin, and that mobs are busy looting stores in some quarters of the city. A general strike affecting transportation, electric power and the water supply of Berlin has been declared, and railroad workers are said to have asked Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, the new chancellor, to leave Berlin.

Other Strikes Called.
A general strike affecting all public services has also been called at Kiel, Bremen, Hamburg and Regensburg, while public sentiment in those localities favorable to the regime of the Ebert government is declared to be increasing in Cologne, Essen, Düsseldorf, Bochum, Duisburg, Spandau and Frankfurt. In these cities a general strike is expected today. Bread is said to be already scarce and expensive in Berlin, and there are fears the supply may fail completely.

Military forces at Leipzig appear to favor the new regime, while a contrary view of the situation is taken by the people generally. It is reported that the Bavarian government has handed over control to a general who is in favor of the Ebert government. The German National Assembly has been summoned to meet at Stuttgart on Tuesday.

CHURCH NOTES.

METHODIST MEETINGS.
The meetings at the Methodist church were well attended yesterday both morning and evening, the congregations being large. The interest is deepening.

Rev. Walter Briggs will be here tonight to lead the singing and help in other ways in the meetings. It is likely he will preach on Tuesday evening.

Rev. Lumsden will preach this evening on "The Ideal Church Member."

The music was of high order at the several services. The DeHaven children sang two helpful numbers at the service last night.

You will be with us tonight. These meetings are for everybody. Come and enjoy the singing. Our only aim is to do you good. Let us keep Lent in the right way.

The meetings begin at 7.30.

BAVARIAN CABINET OUT.

London, March 15.—The Bavarian government has resigned and the National Assembly of that state will be summoned on Tuesday to negotiate concerning the forming of a new cabinet, says Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph company, quoting a telegram from Munich.

George Fite, construction foreman for the Illinois Northern Utilities Co., who is supervising some work for the company at Milan, near Rock Island, was in Dixon for an over-Sunday visit.

LOYD GEORGE WILL HEAD NEW BRITISH PARTY

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, March 15.—A joint manifesto which will be signed by Premier Lloyd George and Bonar Law will be issued in a few days stating the principles of a new party to be led by the premier, says the Daily Mail. It will be accompanied, the Mail declares, by an important reconstruction of the ministry, and for this reason announcement of appointments to the portfolios of labor, food and the board of trade, now vacant, has been postponed.

According to present intentions the name of the new party will be the "National Democratic." In addition to a meeting of liberals next Thursday arrangements are being made for a conference of unionists at which Mr. Bonar Law will announce his resignation from the leadership of that party, and will invite members to join the new organization. Unionist leaders who have been adherents of Premier Lloyd George are said to have decided to support him, but there are indications that the party will not be united in its adherence to the new combination. A revolt under the leadership of the Marquis of Salisbury and Lord Robert Cecil is expected, says the Daily Mail.

Blending, by Chesterfield's method, brings out a new richness of flavor and mellowness of taste that other and less skillful blending methods fail to "discover."

France to Make No Official Protest

Paris, March 15.—The French government has not and will not send any instructions to Ambassador Jusserand in Washington regarding President Wilson's charge of militarism against France. It was said at the foreign office this morning. A report received from the Ambassador stated that on his own initiative he called upon Under Secretary of State Polk and told him of the surprise and emotion caused in France by the president's letter.

The ambassador added that he had made no representations.

Doctor's Call Foils Chillicothe Robbers

Chillicothe, Ill., March 15.—When Dr. F. A. Smith, answering a call here shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, passed the Truitt & Matthews bank he was met by three men and told to "Get out of here."

Suspecting that an attempt was being made to rob the bank he hastened to a telephone and sought to call the bank officials. The telephone operator sounded the fire siren and brought out the populace. In the meantime the robbers had blown the bank safe, but at the sound of the siren they fled without securing any of the bank's money.

Former British Sea Lord Advocates All Debts Be Wiped Out

London, March 13.—Baron Fisher, former Sea Lord, in a letter to the London Times, advocates the wiping out of international war debts.

He writes: "When each country demands of another repayment in cash for what was spent in the common cause it has the aspect of the price of blood and looks as if we were getting a valuation on those millions of young souls who sacrificed their lives for freedom and not for cash.

"Cannot all these international debts be wiped out? England will lose most. Let her lead."

Found Bomb-Proof Shelter in Canal

Paris, March 12.—(French Wireless Service)—The pumping dry of a section of the Bruges-Zeebrugge Canal has revealed some interesting war secrets. It appears that a bomb proof shelter had been constructed to safeguard the entrance of German submarines. Fifty or sixty life shells and six mines were discovered in the canal besides quantities of debris. No bodies, however, were found.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c.
